KENTUCKY BREEDERS TO PETI-TION THE ALBANY LEGISLATURE.

Ask for Protection of the Thoroughbred Industry in the Blue Grass Section Walker's Stable of Jockeys-Leach and Dreyfuss Clash—Pulliam Still Active

Breeders of thoroughbreds in Kentucky are aroused over the introduction of antiracetrack bills at Albany and are circulating this petition for signatures, which will be sent to the members of the Senate and the

We, breeders and other citizens of the Blue Grass region in Kentucky, do earnestly appeal to you to oppose any legislation detri ntal to racing in the State of New York. The fact that New York is the metropolis of our country makes it a national market for all the best of any product and this, we believe, gives us the right to make this appeal The Blue Grass section of our State annually sends to the New York market $1,000,000 worth of thoroughbred yearlings and any egislation which would be injurious to racing would practically and entirely remove this mportant source of revenue and would depreciate the value of our lands 50 per cent he breeding of thoroughbreds is one of the principal industries of our State. Business based on annual sales. Business papers are made due and collectable after these sales and the repeal of the Percy-Gray law would he a disaster second to none that might befall our beautiful and famous section of Ken-

Copies of this petition have been mailed to breeders in Tennessee and Virginia with the request that as many signatures as possible be secured. In Kentucky the names of many business men, bankers, merchants, foctors, lawyers and other professional men ave been signed already.

William Walker, the Western turfman, has probably the largest stable of jockeys in the country under his direct control. In addition to having a contract on Lycurgus and Conolly and calls on the apprentices Forehand and Harris, Walker is interesting himself in securing the reinstatement of E. Lynch at He has first call on Lynch and wants to sell the boy's services to an Eastern The other day Walker suspended horseman. Lycurgus of his own accord and gave these reasons:

"For a week after I came to Arcadia Lycurgus rode as well as Miller or Dugan and then took such a slump in his work that it looked as if he was pulling the horses. It was the same way at Latonia. The first week or so he was an Archer in the saddle and then it got so that he could not 'see' a horse. After a spell on the ground I suppose he will ride as well as ever, for a time any way, but I can't afford to take chances with him now. Forehand, I think, will develop into a real good rider and I am sorry that he rode his 'maiden' on Old Settler the other day. I wanted him to be entitled to the apprentice allowance at least six months longer than he now will be. I put him up on Old Settler only because I did not think the horse could win. Now that he and Harris are out of the maiden class I will or course ride them right along, but I want a stronger and more experienced rider and for that reason I hope that Lynch's suspension will

Lynch caused a sensation at Oakland durng the early winter and as he showed all the qualities that go to make a successful ightweight it was said that several big owners in the East were after his contract. But afterward Lynch put up so many queer looking rides that the stewards decided to set him down and he has been on the ground ever since. Unless he is reinstated before Oakland closes he cannot secure from the Jockey Club to ride on the Eastern

The noted stallion The Bard, who died on Thursday at Chesterbrook Stud, in Pennsylvania, was the most successful racehorse that the late A. J. Cassatt ever owned. arried the tricolor jacket of Mr. Cassatt?for our years on the turf and in that time won wenty-seven races for a total of $81,000. His greatest triumph was his defeat of Hanover the Brooklyn Handicap of 1888. At the of his fame as a race horse The Bard then trained by John Huggins, was attacked by what was supposed to be a fatal malady and so great was his popularity that bulletins were sent out at short intervals while turfmen anxiously awaited his recovery, The Bard was by Longfellow-Bradamante, by War Dance, and was about the last of the sons of Longfellow to achieve success in the The most noted of his progeny was Gold Heels, winner of the Brighton and Suburban Handicaps in 1902 and the champion forse of that year. At the time of his death The Bard was owned by Major E. B. Cassatt . S. A., who kept up a portion of the breeding establishment founded by his father.

While racing under his own name last year E. Durnell's stable winnings amounted to 181 940. Later, when he raced in the name of the Burlingame Stable, he added $10,115. His greatest winner was Nealon, the winner of the Suburban, but Temaceo, Sewell, Saylor, Royal Vane, Faust, Jacobite and St. Ilario Durnell after being placed did well. under the ban of the Jockey Club sold his horses for nearly $40,000. At present he is at Oakland making comparatively small wagers, as it is said that he has met with a number of serious reverses. For that matter, it is reported that there are other well known turf speculators, notably Durnell's former partner, Emil Herz, who are pretty nearly against the wall.

H. C. Pulliam, president of the National has not only decided to decline Garry Herrmann's invitation to attend the national bowling tournament in Cincinnati next week, but has also written to Herrmann that he will readily agree to the latter's request that the portions of the coming National League meeting cover-ing his resignation and the reasons for it be done in open session to which the press will be admitted, so that the entire argument will reach the baseball public in ungarbled form. Herrmann has been counting noses and it is said that at least half of the club owners will notify Pulliam that he has inupon the attitude of Herrmann.

Tommy Leach, who is at odds with Barney Dreyfuss over this year's contract, says that he will leave the matter for settlement to a committee of three Pittsburg business men to be named by Dreyfuss, another to be selected by Leach and the third by the other two. Leach says that Dreyfuss told him that if he was traded to Cincinnati he would have received $5,000, thereby putting a value on Leach's services, but that when Dreyfuss handed him a contract for this year the salary named was much below that amount. Leach points to the fact that he stood a 30 per cent, cut in his pay and stuck to Drevfuss when several years ago he could have jumped to the American League for a fancy sum. But in spite of all these arguments Dreyfuss says that Leach will sign at the club's figures or remain idle. There are more kickers over salary in the two big leagues this year than for a long time past. The players say the clubs all coined money last season and that they can well afford to pay more for their services.

Jack Blackburn, the well known lightweight, who has been meeting welter, middle and heavy weights with remarkable success, wants to tackle Joe Gans for the champion ship. Gans got a decision over him three years ago in a fifteen round bout at Baltimore, and Blackburn thinks that he is entitled to another chance now, particularly for the reason that he has improved in both skill and strength. Blackburn has agreed to fight Bill Heveron, an English heavyweight who was recently knocked out in a punch by Jack O'Brien, the mill to take place in Philadelphia on February 14. Incidentally Blackburn declares that he will make a match with McFarland, Nelson, Britt or Unbols at a moment's notice.

Sutton-Hoppe Match for 18:2 Championship Likely to Be Played Here.

The time for George Sutton to cover William doppe's forfeit and accept the latter's challenge for the 18.2 balk line championship expired with the passing of yesterday, but although no word was received here that Sutton had posted his forfeit it does not follow that he did not do so. He may have posted the $250 with the B. B. C. Co. in Chicago. the $250 with the B. B. C. Co. in Chicago. One reason why it is believed Sutton does not intend to forfeit the title to Hoppe is that a few days ago he expressed a desire to have the match with Hoppe played in Madison Square Garden Concert Hall in New York and named March 27 as a date that would suit him. Albert Troescher has secured an option on the concert hall for three nights in the latter part of March, so it may be regarded as a probability that Sutton and Hoppe will play for the championship here on or about March 27.

The Schaefer-Hoppe match for the 18-1 balk line championship is to be played in Orchestra Hall in Chicago. Schaefer, as champion, has finally decided on that. He has named March 15 ard 18 as dates that will be agreeable to him. This would give Hoppe ten days in which to prepare for the match with Sutton and make the shift from 18.1

Orlando Morningstar braced up last night and played a strong game of 18.2 balkline against Tom Gallagher. It was the last game of a series of five in Daly's academy. Gallagher won three out of the five. The score last night was 400 to 158 in Morningstar's favor. The winner made an average of 28 and a fraction and outplayed Gallagher at nearly every stage of the contest. A majority of his innings were profitable and the seventh was marked by clever finessing that netted 136 noints. This run was one of a cluster of sessions that swelled the total at a rapid rate. Championship Goes to Newport With All Conditions the Same-Ranking Committee Makes Statement in Hobart Matter-Some New Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, held last night at the Waldorf-Astoria, was rather more animated than most of these gatherings of the lawn tennis authorities have been in times past. The chief thing done was to turn over the matter of a challenger for the Davis international bowl to a committee to be selected by the president, Dr. James Dwight. This committee, according to programme, is to discover if there is sentiment in favor of challenging the Australasians for the trophy, which they now hold, and if there is a challenge what men will be willing to go No 76 Broad St New York

As far as Dr. Dwight and Robert D. Wrenn both members of last year's committee of selection, are concerned there is small likelihood of a challenge. Dr. Dwight said that they had so much trouble getting two men last year he felt even more hopeless this time. Mr. Wrenn said that mere feelings of patriotism need not drive the Americans to challenge with a third class team. In other words, he believed in patriotism tempered by the chances of success.

William A. Larned, the present national champion, was in favor of sending a challenge anyway, especially if it could be arranged to play a preliminary tie in this country with England or the other challengers, or else if it were learned that there would be no other challenger, he said that even a green team should be sent.

Dr. Dwight used a simile about letting the English pull the chestnuts out of the fire this year, indicating that he had heard that England would have such a good team the cup surely would go back there. He dilated on the need of about three months time to be taken in making the trip. The enamenge has to be received in the holding country on or before March 2. The same disposition was made of the question of American representation in the Olympic tennis tournaments, the same committee being put in charge. the same committee being put in charge. After all the agitation that is reported to have been going on for various reforms, the matter of awarding the tournament to Newport passed with the slickness of grease. Not a murmur of any other place. Also it was announced that the executive committee disapproved of having a day in between the final of the all-comers' and the challenge round in singles. That, too, went by the board. There was a trifle of argument when Frederick G. Anderson, one of the executive committee, made a motion that the champion play through. He asked earnestly that the players present, especially the champions, make some expression of opinion.

H. H. Hackett, F. B. Alexander and W. A.
Larned, who are the national titleholders in doubles and singles, would not make a definite statement except to remark smilingly that if the association passed a rule they would abide by it. Anderson couldn't even get a second to the motion, needed reform though it is believed to be, and a standing vote of a motion to make no change was carried by 24 to 11. A lot of the delegates had gone out by then, the hour being late.

It was a very complete meeting in point of numbers, more delegates than usual being there, probably in hope of some drastic action in the Hobart matter. There was some discussion of the letter which Mr. Hobart wrote to The Sun and its subsequent answer in the present week. Mr. Hobart was not at the meeting. The matter was brought up when
A. L. Hoskins, chairman of the ranking committee, arose to make the formal presentation of his report. He was received with applause.

A. L. Hoskins, chairman of the ranking committee, arose to make the formal presentation of his report. He was received with applause. Mr. Hoskins said:

I want to state if I may in defence of your committee and in connection with some recent criticism that we did as a committee simply our best. We have been charged with pretty nearly everything, and of course you have read the replies, especially the one which has been published by my friend Mr. Trask. It is needless to say that after our labors, no matter how much they have been belittled, we feel rather disappointed that any one could as a member of this association or as a tennis player, which is perhaps broader, find room for such criticism.

I have been associated with sports of various sorts for twenty years, and it is the first time that I have been charged with any thing practically dishonest; and my confreres are in the same boat with me, and we repudiate the whole thing very decidedly. A challenge has been made along these lines to prove these assertions. Whether or not they are made good remains to be seen. I simply ask and I think I have it the anneated the support of the property of the property and the property and the property and the property ask and I think I have it the anneated the support of the property and the property ask and I think I have it the anneated the property ask and I think I have it the anneated the property ask and I think I have it the anneated the property ask and I think I have it the anneated the property and I have the proval of the association as a whole. We did the best we could with the data we had on hand.

"There may be legitimate criticism coming to us. I believe that is true of any ranking committee but not such as Mr. Hobart has given voice to. We have asked for data, I think, practically all over the United States, but in many instances it was not forthcoming. As I said before we did the best we could. You all know the result and I trust that it meets with general approval and I cars not as chairman of the committee for anything to the contrary."

The end of this was greeted with applause and later a vote of thanks to the committee was made by the association.

The secretary's report showed 115 clubs and sixteen associations members of the association. Outside of Montana, Oklahoma and Arkansas the U.S. N. I. T. A. is represented in every State. The treasurer's report showed $2.674 on hand. The expenses of sending over the Davis cup team were only $888.10, and there were returns from gate money of enough to bring that down to $866. It was announced that the association had been incorporated in West Virginia. There were some changes in the officers. Dr. Dwight was reelected president and R. D. Wrenn and Richard Stevens were named as vice-president and treasurer respectively once more. A. L. Hoskins was elected secretary in place of P. E. Presbrey, who resigned, owing to press of other work, after many seasons of service.

A new executive committee was chosen, K. Collins of Chicago and Hoskins dropping out, to be replaced by L. H. Waidner and P. E. Presbrey. W. A. Larned, R. D. Little, P. G. Anderson, H. Ward, L. D. Scott, D. F. Davis and W. J. Clothier of the old committee were reelected. Motions to redistrict the United States for tennis purposes and to expend $400 for the benefit of the association magazine American Lawa Tennis, were carried. Several new clubs were elected to membership, among them the Vedado Tennis Club of Havana. Cubba.

Calhoun Cragin of the West Side T. C. Coroposed a resolution that a committee be appointed to study and to correct the defects of the present system of government of the association. This was laid on the table after a brief discussion. Later Dr. Dwight had a change of heart and tried to get it reintroduced, but the association didn't want the reform movement and didn't vote for it.

Dates for Three Tournaments and the New Jersey Championship

It is the early club that catches the best tournament dates. Dates for three tournaments were assigned yesterday by the Metropolitan Golf Association, an unusually early demand for days and an indication that the golf season is to be unusually brisk about New York. The clubs to ask for dates were the Garden City Golf Club, Wykagyl Country ub and the Shinnecook Hills Golf Club For the last two years the Garden City tournament has opened the local season in April and preceded the fixtures both of the Country Club of Lakewood and the Atlantic City Country Club. This time a May tournament is announced, which will immediately follow Lakewood and be followed by the big Atlantic City competition, to make three weeks of attractive golfing in which tourists from the South and the winter stay at homes will measure their strength. The tournament of the Wykagyl Country Club is the first ever held by this young and prosperous organization of New Rochelle, although last year it held a one day open competition, while the invitation tournament of the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club has been held without a break since 1895. The dates follow: Garden City Golf Club tournament, May 7, 8 and 9.

Wykagyl Country Club tournament, June 11, 12 and 13. ck Hills Golf Club tournament, August

The amateur championship at Garden City in September will be a spur to urge on the local players throughout the spring and fall, so that there should be large fields in the tournaments. The Deal Golf and Country Club will ask for dates in August and other clubs will also be in line.

The New Jersey State Golf Association has selected the Englewood Golf Club for its annual championship on June 4, 5 and 6. The Metropolitan Golf Association championship will be at the Haltusrol Golf Club the third week of May, which indicates further spring activity in local golf. It will be the third time that the New Jersey tournament has been held at Englewood. The only other application was from the Atlantic City Country Club, which according to custom is now in the first place as next year's applicant.

Leighton Calkins, president of the New Jersey Golf Association, has selected the following as his aids on the executive committee: J. Whitney Baker, secretary and treasurer: H. V. Keep, chairman tournament committee, and E. N. Todd; M. D. W. Thurston, chairman handicap committee, and Embury Palmer: honorary member executive committee, John W. Griggs.

The Ridgewood Golf Club and the Scottish American Golf Club have been elected to membership in the Metropolitan Golf Associa-tion, while the resignation of the Roseville Golf Club is also announced. The Roseville organization, because of the loss of its links, has disbanded.

deal of rough work and slugging resulted. The student element enjoyed the roughhouse and cheered the home team on. At one time there were three couples rolling over the floor as if in a wrestling match. The referee probably saw the futility of calling fouls and gave it up as a bad job.

The slugging ended badly, as Brandt hurt his ankle and Perlman, the star guard, got a cut three inches long over his eye. The latter had to quit, as he was bleeding profusely. Strensand, the favorite of the college, went in the game in the last five minutes and succeeded in scoring two goals and one foul. The foul was the only one called on the visiting team. It was due to Cahill and Wentworth that the visitors succeeded in cutting down the lead. Heskowitz and Barbanell with Strensand played best for the New Yorkers.

The University Settlement 115 pound team defeated the Hopler five by 8 to 5.

The Pennsylvania team is so far undefeated in the league series, and to-night the quintet played in excellent form. MacNichol of the visiting team proved a wonderfully fast man at centre, but was up against Yale's best player in the person of Van Vleck, the pitcher on the Yale varsity nine.

MacNichol threw four baskets from the floor to three secured by Van Vleck. Keinath displayed brilliancy as a foul thrower, getting six out of nine chances, while Yale's foul throwers were able to secure only three scores out of ten chances. This weakness cost the home team the most important game of the season. Van Vleck and Kiefaber were sent from the floor for rough playing.

"There is such a thing as speed mania. declares J. D. Maxwell, "and no one regrets its existence more than manufacturers. recklessness of some automobilists has done much to hinder the legitimate progress of the industry and discredit the usefulness of the industry and discredit the usefulness of the new conveyance. The sensible automobilist respects the rights of every user of the highways, and every driver who disregards these rights can expect nothing but prosecution and punishment. Speed contests are very useful in their way, in that they prove tests for the designer, but the common highways are not the place for impromptu and promiscuous racing. At the same time it is evident that the automobile scorcher is fast disappearing, just as the bicycle scorcher has long since ceased to bother pedestrians and drivers of horse drawn vehicles."

C. C. N. Y. WINS ROUGH GAME.

In the roughest basketball game ever seen in the City College gymnasium the local players defeated the representatives of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology last night by the score of 19 to 15. were not so good in shooting and missed more tries than their opponents. Kaplan, last year's centre, who until recently was ineligible, played a good game for City College and did some spectacular long distance shooting, but succeeded in scoring only one goal.

The local collegians looked like easy winners as the score was 10 to 5 in their favor at the end of the first half. In the second half the visitors played much harder and a great deal of rough work and slugging resulted. motor cars, technical and modish, have been becoming less marked each year, and the incentive to dispose of one's car after a summer's use is becoming very much less. The tendency is thus increased for the owner to depend upon the same car for a term of years, and thus the question of its probable durability begins to be seriously considered, even among the more aristocratic class of owners.

When it is absolutely necessary to have a funnel, in the event of trouble when on the road, where none of the regular sort is available, it is a trick requiring but a moment a time to remove the horn from the car, disconnect it, and take out the reed, after which it will be found to serve the purpose very well indeed. In many instances it will be more useful than the rolled up maper cornucopia which is usually suggested at such times.

It seldom happens that a nut which is rusted in place cannot be removed if soaked for a sufficient length of time in kerosene oil. It is often difficult to apply the oil in such a way that it will reach the roots of the thread, however, and frequently the rust remains untouched, even after a long period of treatment on this account. A good way of insuring its proper distribution is to bind a thread of cotton waste about the affected

POLY PREP DEFEATS ADELPHI. Poorly Played Basketball Game Ends With Score 30 to 19.

The Poly boys showed themselves to be superior to Adelphi in team work from the start, but their shooting in team work from the start, but their shooting was so poor that they did not get the advantage of their good work in this respect. Had they shot one-half the goals which they attempted the score would have been much larger than it was. The score at intermission was 12 to 5 in favor of Poly.

In the next half Poly increased its lead, but the shooting did not improve any. Douglas Bomeisler, who regularly plays centre on Poly, is ill and his absence crippled the team somewhat. His brother, A. Bomeisler, and Resart played best for Poly. Halstead showed up well at centre for Adelphi as did the guards, Hogartand Fairborn.
